

Misconceptions about Jack Stankovic

Wei Zhao

Ph.D. 1986, University of Massachusetts at Amherst

Misconception 1:

Jack started his work on real-time systems when

- a) He wrote the first paper on real-time guarantee with Krithi Ramamritham
- b) He spent his sabbatical in CMU
- c) He wrote the famous paper on misconceptions on real-time systems

Misconception 1:

Jack started his work on real-time systems when

- a) He wrote the first paper on real-time guarantee with Krithi Ramamritham
- b) He spent his sabbatical in CMU
- c) He wrote the famous paper on misconceptions on real-time systems
- d) He started working on real-time system 1970

Misconception 2: Jack is a nice professor

Misconception 2: Jack is a nice professor

Untrue!

It has never been easy to take his class and/or to write papers with him:

- No overlapping components in his courses 😞 😞
- Re-writing a paper at least three times completely before submission 😞 😞

Misconception 3: Jack's biggest accomplishment is

- a) Papers, citations, and patents
- b) Proposals and projects
- c) Prototypes and systems

Misconception 3: Jack's biggest accomplishment is

- a) Papers and patents
- b) Proposals and funded projects
- c) Prototypes and systems
- d) Super-size academic family (including 400+ Ph.Ds and still counting)